

Global risk intelligence deployed in real time

Riskline provides verified, independent travel risk assessments. We work all day, every day to give you the latest intelligence on what's happening worldwide.

Fast, actionable risk analysis

In a fast-moving, ever-changing world, travelling personnel face a host of security, natural and health risks that can be difficult to assess from afar. With local intelligence experts on the ground in every major region of the world, Riskline is on the front line of accuracy, delivering verified real-time risk analysis and travel advisories you can trust. Your organisation gets easy access to up-to-the-minute, actionable in-country information, critical to the safety and security of your people, your assets and your operations – 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Dedicated to accurate intelligence

We are a dedicated group of intelligence professionals with diverse cultural and academic backgrounds – all with a solid understanding of commercial risk assessment. Strategically stationed on every continent, our team members are in close contact with trusted local sources, tracking and covering events that other organisations miss.

Precision-focused on our partners

By providing standardised services with a tailored approach, we aim to be the key ingredient to our clients' solutions. We ensure our information is delivered in the most user-friendly and accessible way for each client and work to continuously improve their products and scale for the future.

Stay one step ahead with Riskline

Global coverage – Local expertise

We have a diverse group of full-time expert analysts based around the globe, and we collaborate with an extensive network of knowledgeable in-country security advisors. This helps us provide non-stop coverage of over 220 countries and territories worldwide.

Fast, accurate information

By filtering noise and honouring verifiable facts, we deliver authentic, concise and relevant information – and we get it online in real time.

A premium product at an economy price

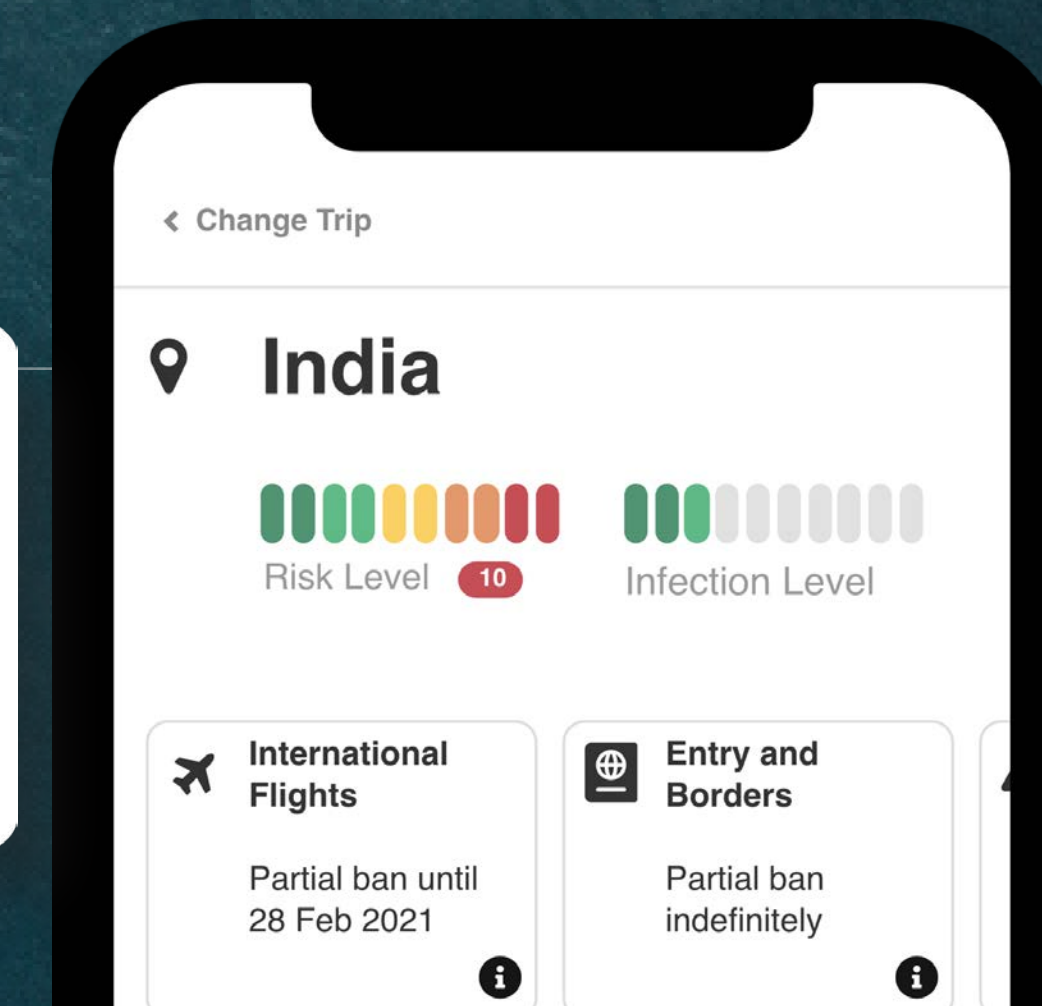

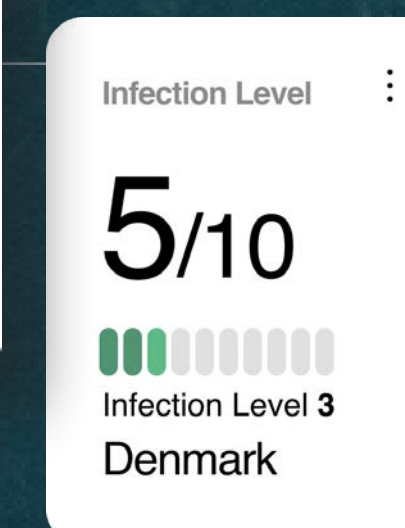

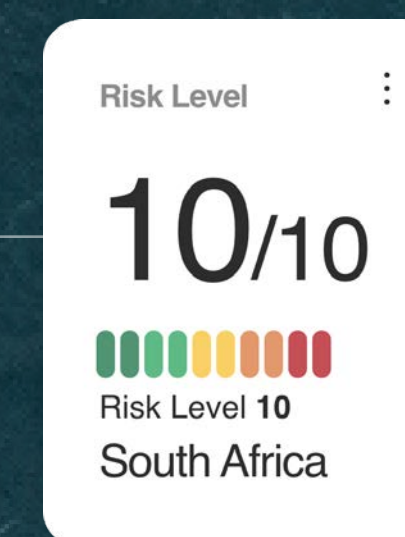

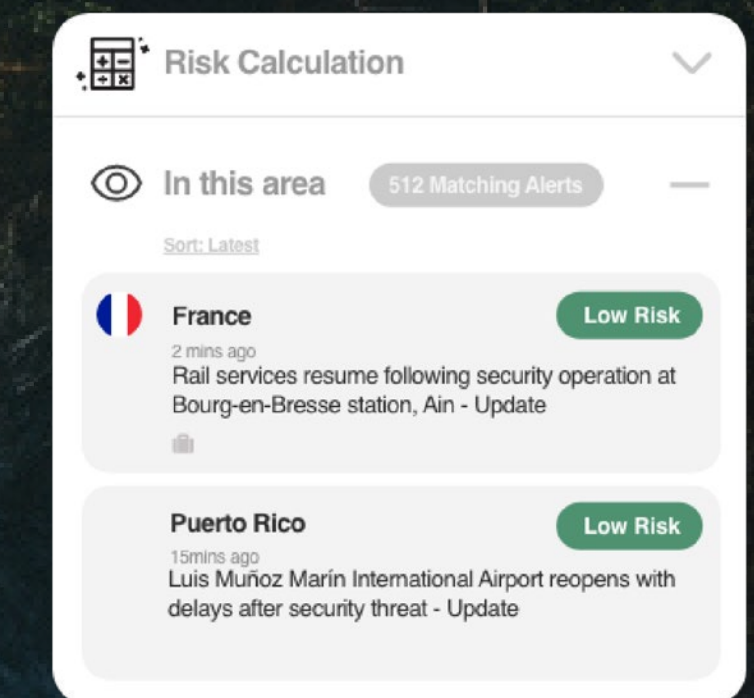

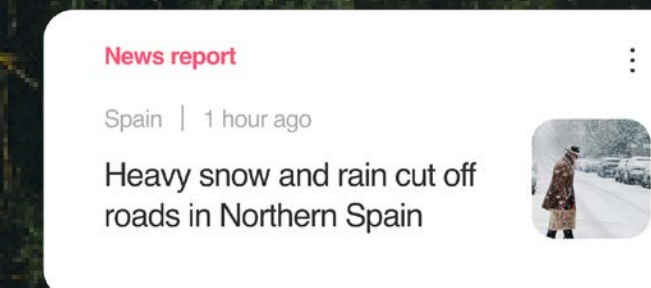

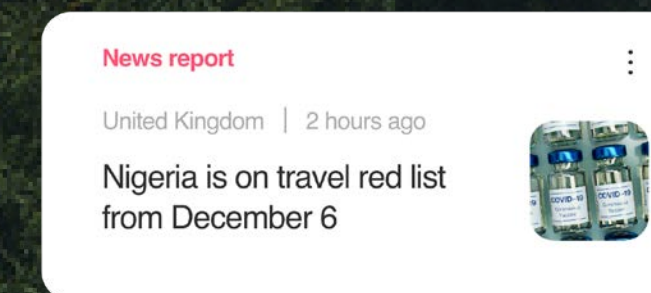

We offer leading-edge data and risk analysis at a fair market price, delivering ultimate value for money.

A key service provider and strategic partner

Part of a larger travel or security solution, we provide a key risk-assessment service for many clients. We are also a strategic partner for many clients who rely on our expertise to help them build their products and technologies around our service.

Standardised products – Customised solutions

We offer standardised products, with a range of features, that integrate easily with other technologies. At the same time, we work together with clients to develop customised solutions that meet their specific needs.

Assessing risk intelligently

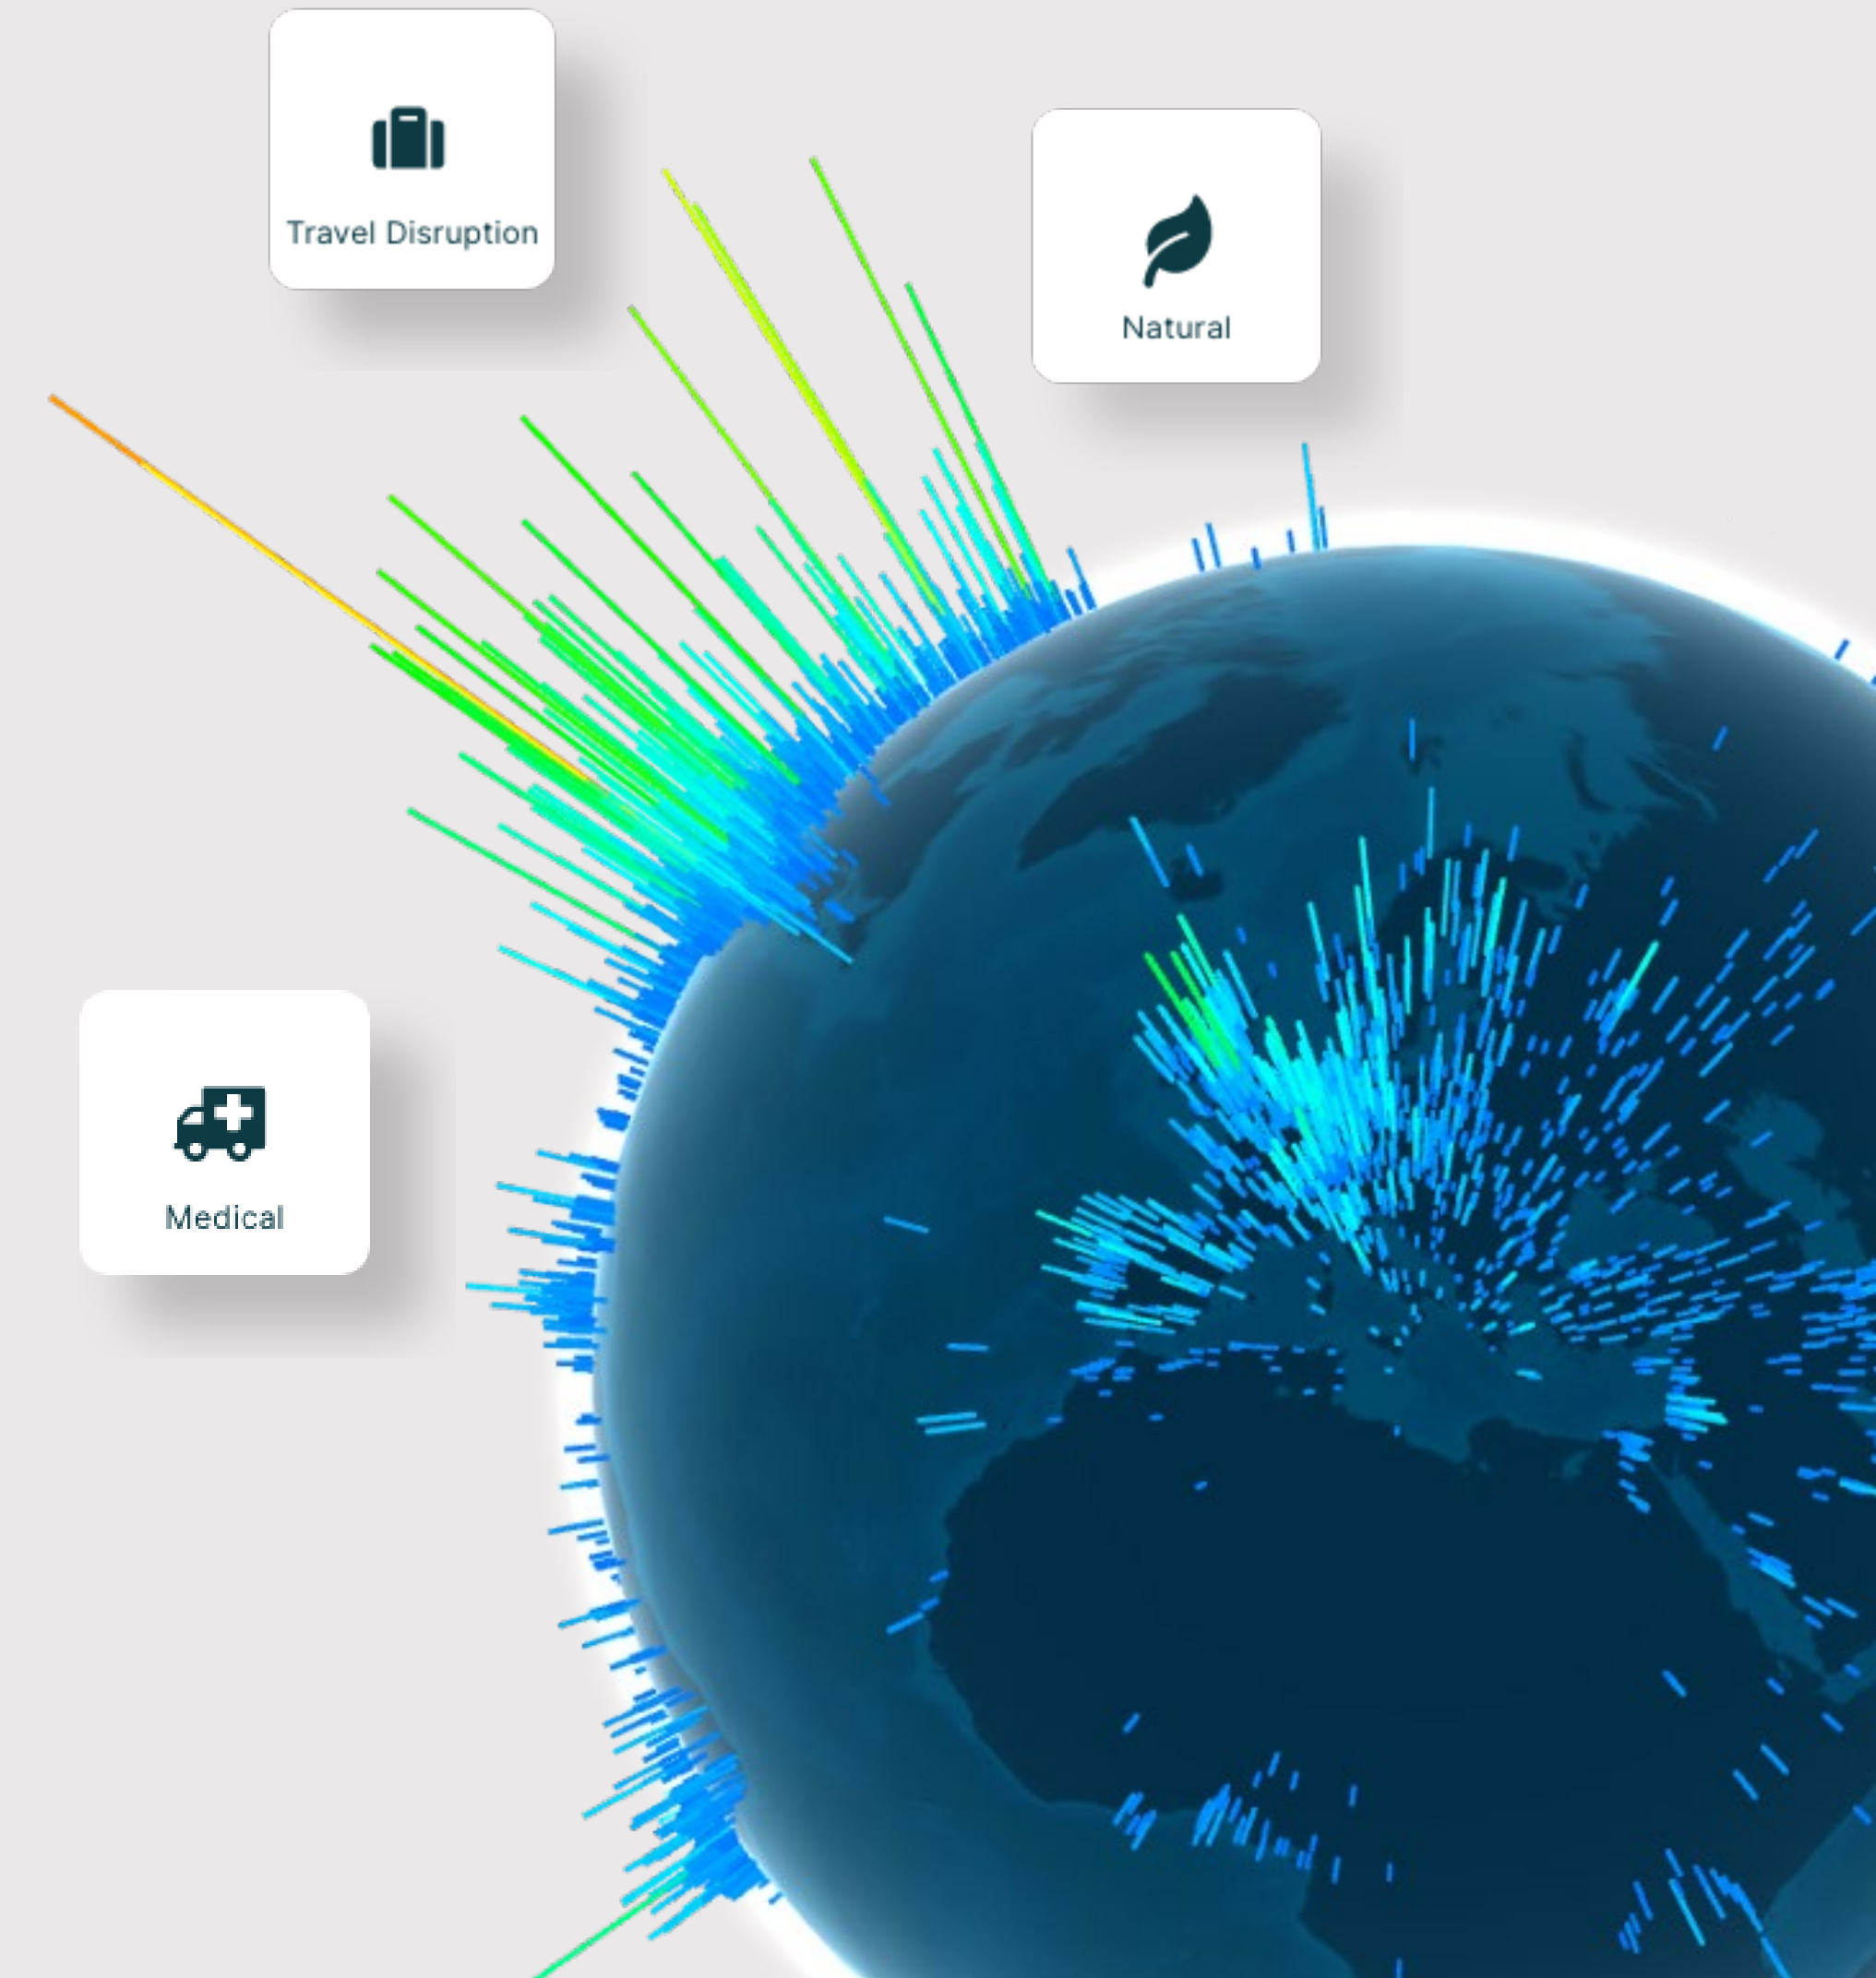

Our analysts use alerts to cover incidents that could have an actual or expected impact on travel plans, operations, personnel safety or client assets.

Type of events we cover

- Political developments
- Conflict and terrorism
- Demonstrations and unrest
- Crime and corruption
- Natural and environment
- Health and medical
- Travel safety and disruptions

Analysts cover an incident if the answer is 'yes' to either or both of these questions:

- Will this incident have an actual or potential impact on travel?
- Will this incident have an actual or potential impact to the safety of a traveller?

Risk alerts

Our 24/7 risk alerts are concise reports detailing immediate hazards. Precise location data helps managers see who is affected, while our dashboard alerts them to what's happening in real time.

Risk advisories

Managers can learn more about complex local developments, high-risk locations and upcoming events with our longform advisory reports. Keeping you informed during decision-making processes.

Pre-travel advisory

Riskline is an independent, global company of analysts that reports local travel risk assessments for companies with an international outlook to keep business and leisure travellers safe.

Daily brief

This newsletter is a combination of recent significant incidents as well as a preview of the most anticipated events for the upcoming day, delivered at the start of each workday.

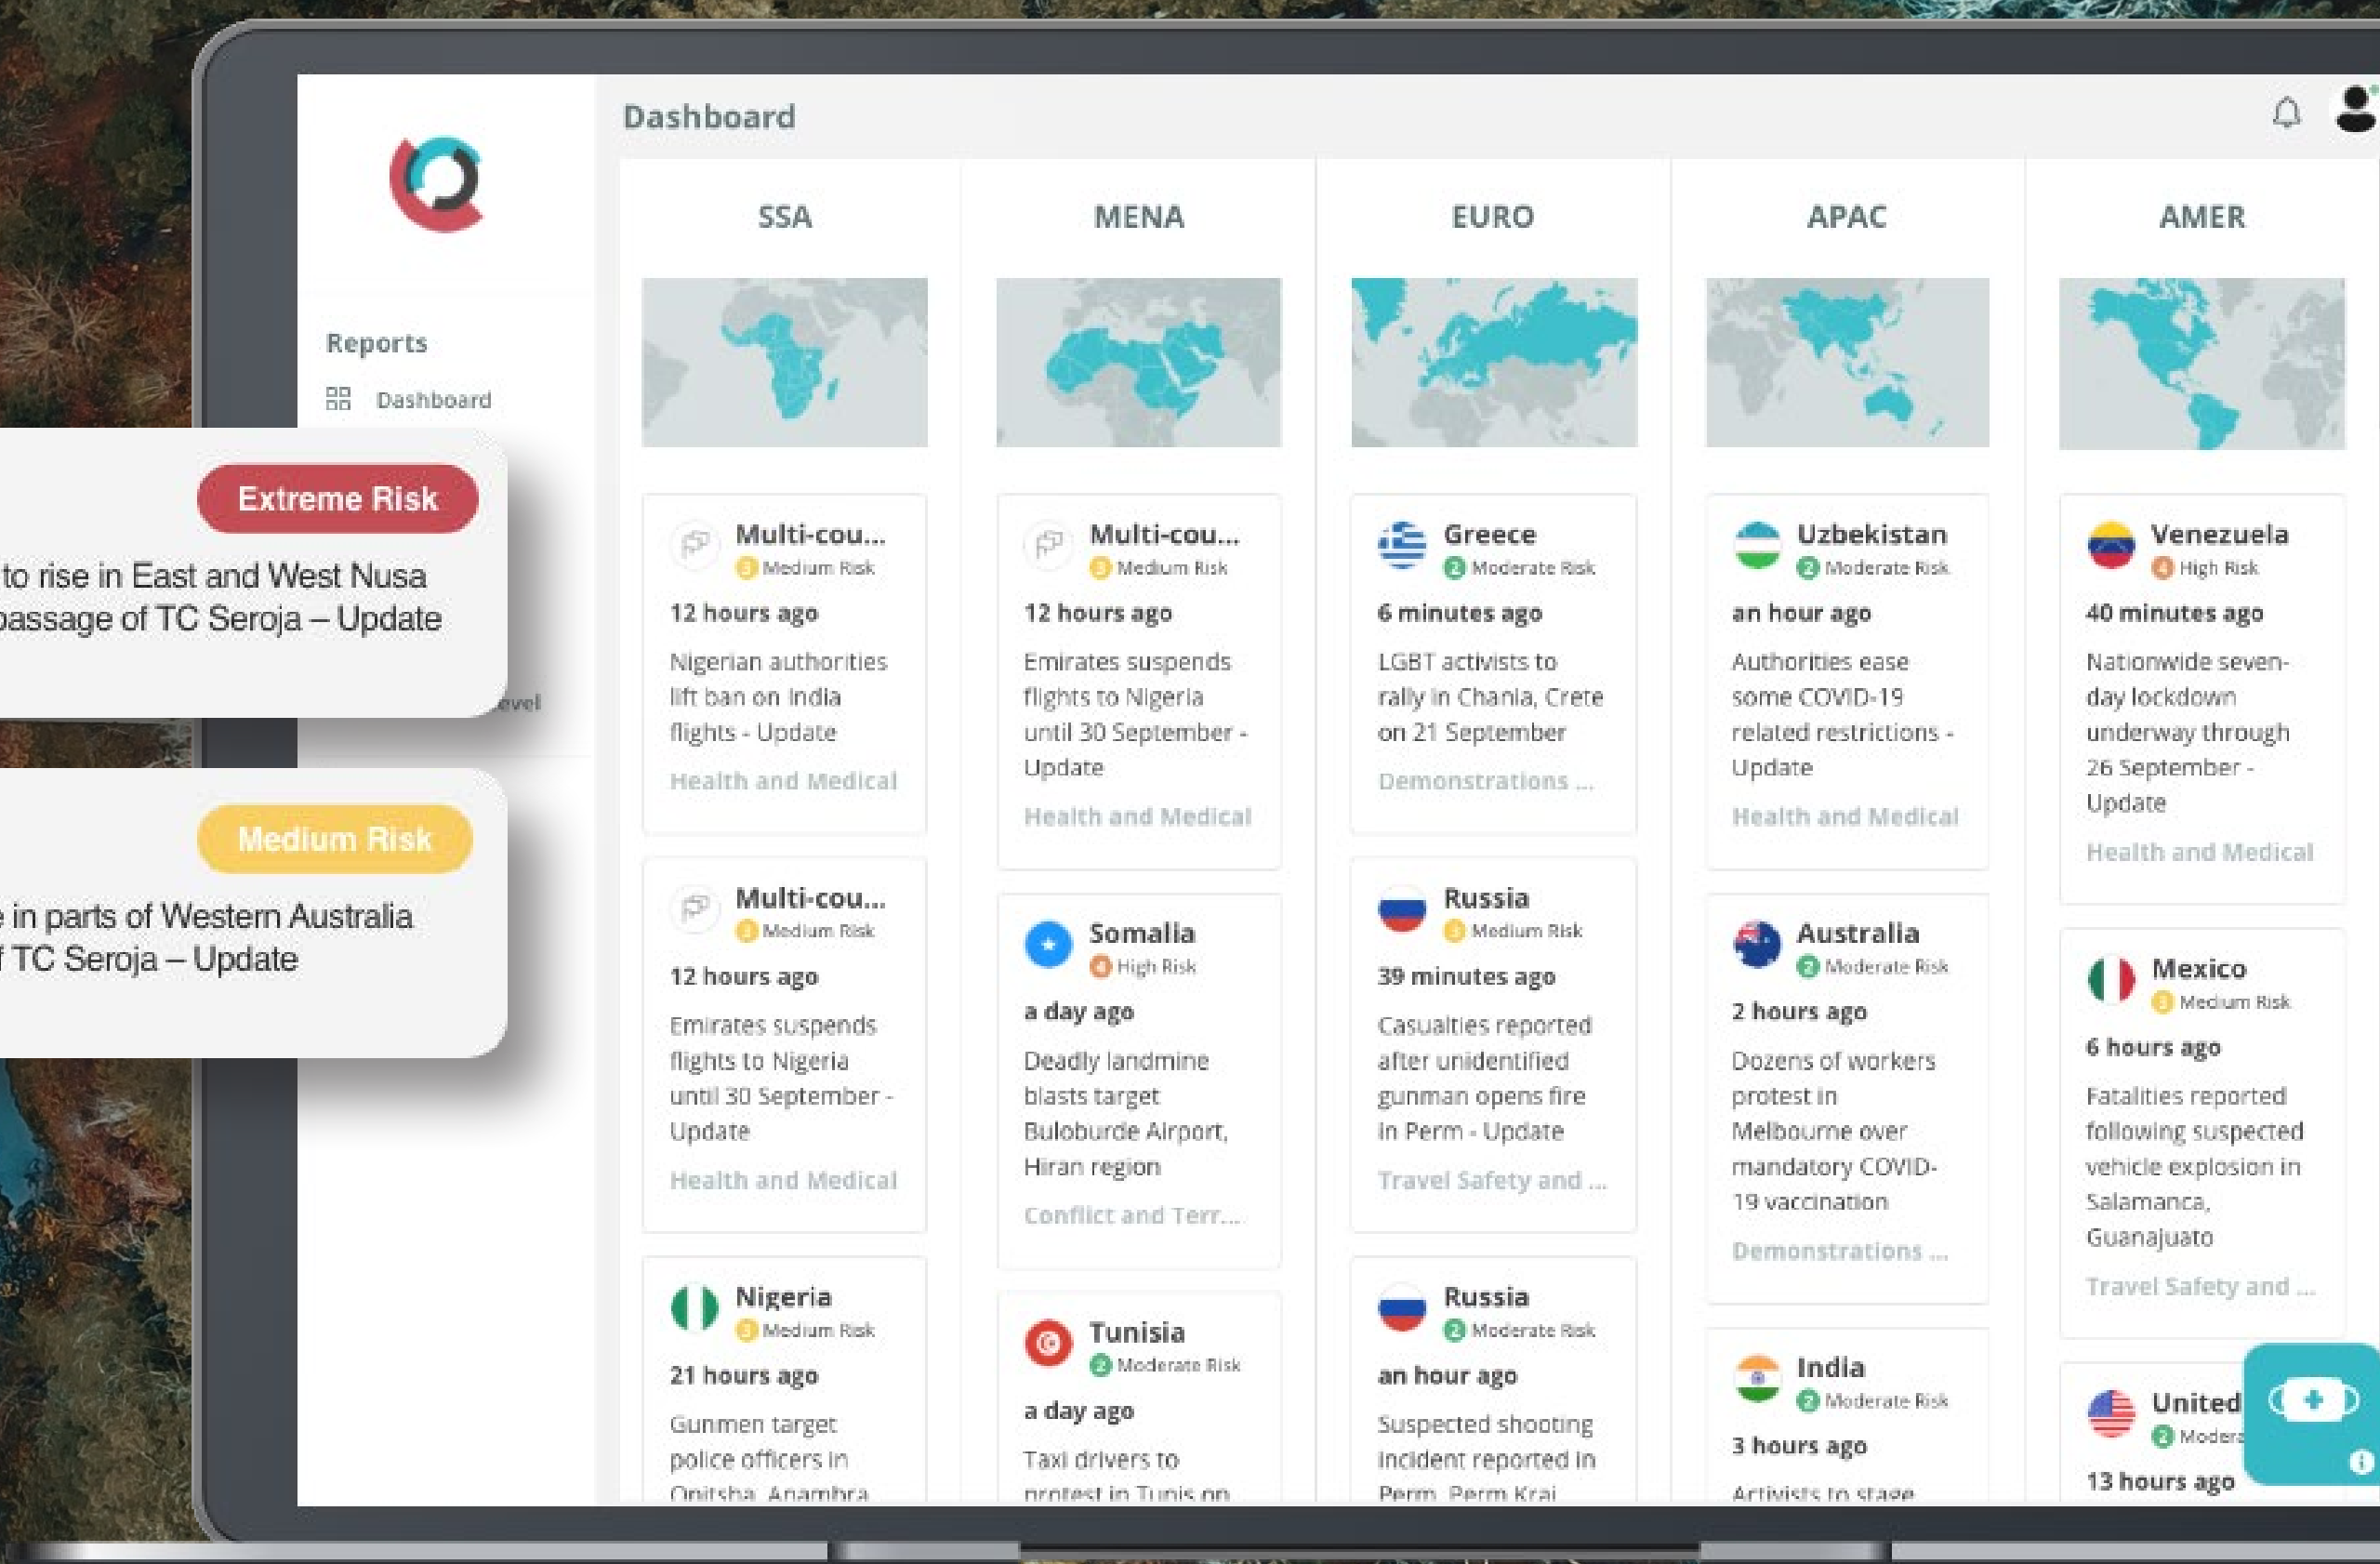

Destination reports
Riskline provides an assessment of risk for more than 450 countries, territories and cities to help simplify pre-travel procedures. Each report contains relevant, regularly updated local information.

Country and city maps
Our country maps help managers visualise high-risk areas and recent security and travel alerts, while our city maps illustrate local information and advice down to the street level.

Customised user-centric portals

Riskline offers customised web portals that can be accessed from any device using any operating system. Every portal features easy access to country and city reports, the global risk map and the alerts dashboard. The global risk map displays each country's risk level, a brief summary and a shortcut to the full country report. The alerts dashboard shows the most recent alerts, grouped by region.

Internationally recognised methodologies

We assess risk using a custom methodology based on internationally recognised risk management procedures. Our number-one priority when assessing risk is the safety and security of your travellers and the integrity of their travel plans.

Five user-friendly risk levels

We use five standardised risk levels to assess risk to personnel, travel and operations across all our reports. Each risk level is assessed based on an actual or potential impact and the likelihood of an incident occurring, if it has yet to take place.

Characteristics of security		Characteristics of travel disruption
	Extreme	Extremely dangerous and unpredictable	Chaotic, travel impossible
	High	Dangerous and unexpected	Widespread disruptions
	Medium	Dangerous but predictable	Significant disruptions
	Moderate	Dangerous but predictable	Routine travel disruptions
	Low	Calm and predictable	No relevant disruptions

Backed by decades of travel security experience

Founded in 2007, we are privately owned and operated.

Our activities are coordinated from our head office in Copenhagen, where we assist millions of corporate and individual travellers each year.

Our world-class security services are trusted by Fortune 500 companies as well as small businesses across a wide range of industries including Travel Management, Insurance, Assistance and Security.
