Sports ETA STS Certificate Course: Game of Engagement — How to LIFT Team Buy-In and Build Momentum

8:30 a.m. – 10:30 a.m. | GCCC A226

Your event strategy is only as strong as your team's engagement. In this high-energy session, you'll learn how to use the LIFT System—a gamified design framework—to transform internal motivation, communication and collaboration. Blair Bloomston, founder of Leaders Uplifted, has worked with the USOPC, USA Swimming, US Lacrosse, NASCAR, SEC, IMG Academy and organizations like NASA, Deloitte and Hilton to elevate buy-in and boost motivation through the power of game-based learning. Whether you lead a team or you're a new leader on the rise, you'll walk away with game-based tools and interactive strategies to strengthen your team's buy-in and get traction faster. You can expect to learn:

- A game-based framework for diagnosing and improving team engagement
- Practical tools to boost motivation, communication, and internal alignment
- A proven strategy to energize your next initiative or project rollout

Come get uplifted in this essential, interactive session. Because when your team is truly engaged, you're not just playing—you're positioned to win. This course is open to those seeking their Sports ETA STS certification, as well as anyone who wants to participate.

This course requires separate registration and costs $399 for Sports ETA members and $499 for non-members. You will be able to register on-site; however, payment must be received at the time of registration. For more information, email info@SportsETA.org.

TEAMS Educational Session — Game On: How Hotels are Adapting in the Sports Market

10:30 a.m. – 11:15 a.m.
GCCC Union Station Ballroom

The sports market is one of the hotel industry's most competitive and fastest-evolving segments. In this lively panel, seasoned hotel leaders will pull back the curtain on how they court, serve and retain sports groups—from youth tournaments to professional teams—and where they see the market headed.

Expect candid insights on room rates, occupancy trends, new property development, and the changing needs of traveling teams and fans. You'll also hear predictions on the next big disruptors—and opportunities—that could redefine sports group housing. Leave with strategies you can put to work in your own events and partnerships.

TEAMS Educational Session — More Than a Moment: Fueling the Future of Women in Sports Tourism

10:30 a.m. – 11:15 a.m.
GCCC A112–114

Women's sports have been on a rocket ship trajectory the past few years. But so have opportunities for women in sports tourism. This session, in collaboration with the Women in Sports Tourism Collective, will explore how destinations, suppliers and rights holders can work together to be powerful engines for equity, visibility and leadership in sports tourism.

From grassroots efforts to large-scale impact, this session will examine how collaboration can turn into lasting change for women in the industry.

Hear leadership examples, learn about intentional networking and come away with actionable items on turning connections into momentum—and momentum into lasting change.

TEAMS Educational Session — Build Your Data Strategy: Turning Sports-Related Travel Data into Action

11:15 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
GCCC A112–114

What drives fans to travel? Which sports win over which audiences? How much economic impact do traveling fans really generate? In this data-packed session, new research will reveal what fans value most when deciding to hit the road, which sports resonate with different age groups and nationalities, and the emerging trends shaping future sports tourism.

We'll also dive into how you can use this research to advocate for sports tourism, strengthen your pitch to stakeholders and create smarter, more targeted data-based strategies.

TEAMS Educational Session — The Booming Business of Youth Sports

4:15 p.m. – 5:00 p.m. | GCCC Union Station Ballroom

Youth sports have become one of the fastest-growing — and most scrutinized — sectors of the sports industry. With billions of dollars invested in new complexes, camps, and training programs, the opportunities have never been greater — but neither have the challenges.

This session takes a high-level look at where youth sports are headed, from private equity's growing role to the ways venues are adapting for social media and enhanced fan experiences. We'll also tackle the critical question of rising participation costs and whether the industry risks pricing out the very families it's built to serve. Join us for a thought-provoking discussion on the future of youth sports and what it means for organizations, venues and athletes alike.

TEAMS '25 Closing General Session: Counting Down to the 2026 FIFA World Cup

1:00 p.m. – 2:00 p.m. | GCCC Union Station Ballroom

In our closing session, we'll pass the TEAMS flag to our 2026 hosts in Birmingham, Alabama — a ceremony you won't want to miss! You'll also get a welcome to TEAMS Europe '26 in Birmingham, UK — the year of Birminghams! And be on hand to hear the winners of the Best Booth Contest sponsored by Trophy Smack.

Afterwards, settle in for our final educational session of the week. The world's biggest sporting event is coming — and with it, unprecedented opportunities for U.S. host cities and destinations across North America. The FIFA World Cup 26 will feature more teams, more matches and more global attention than ever before.

For the 11 U.S. host cities — and the many others positioned as base camp locations — the potential for economic impact, international tourism and long-term brand elevation is huge. In this session, hear from organizers, host committees and host cities on how destinations can maximize this once-in-a-generation opportunity, from driving visitor spending to building lasting partnerships that can extend far beyond the final whistle.
