CLOUD COLLABORATION HUB

Advance2000's Collaboration Hub is a unique cloud service that allows independent organizations to work together on a common project while protecting their data and networks. We provide a cloud "co-location" space that enables firms to access shared project files with the performance and ease of working locally.

Independent firms work together as if they're under the same roof and on the same network. We have helped hundreds of firms, consultants, subcontractors and owners work together on projects in real-time. Remote teams have the convenience of working from their own office without exposing their individual intellectual property.
