Transforming healthcare together

Part of an international movement that aims to counteract the rise of chronic lifestyle related diseases, by bringing partners together from varying disciplines to focus on patient-centred medicine.

“We are delighted to be working with the ESIM to bring the annual congress to London. We look forward to seeing a community of likeminded individuals who can exchange research, success stories and challenges to continue to inspire progress in the field of Integrative Medicine.”

A global gathering of professionals from multi-disciplines

ECIM 2020 brings together medical practitioners, healthcare professional, scientists, researchers, practitioners and health politicians from multi-disciplines. They share the same vision for a more holistic, patient-centred approach to healthcare and recognise that real change occurs when people and organisations start working together.

Forward thinking conference

A conference programme catering to medical practitioners and researchers looking to be inspired, educated and exposed to the latest evidence-informed research and applications in Integrative Medicine.

If you are interested in presenting, please submit an abstract on or before 1st April 2020.
