Exhibition and Sponsorship Opportunities

About the Symposium

The Thermal Well Integrity and Production Symposium is an event that brings together industry professionals to learn, discuss and connect. Presenters share their recent experiences, ongoing challenges, new innovations and solutions associated with well integrity, drilling, completions and production of thermal wells.

Who Will Be There?

Attending the symposium are participants from thermal operating companies, service providers, manufacturers, regulators, academia, consulting firms and more.

Why You Should Sponsor

The TWIP Symposium is the premier thermal event of the year. People attend this event to meet and interact with knowledgeable, experienced, and influential industry peers and experts. Stand out as a leader in this space by sponsoring and having your brand prominently displayed. Whether you're demonstrating your company's commitment to safety and continuous improvement or showcasing high-caliber products and services — sponsorship is a powerful tool to stand out and be noticed.

Benefits Include:

- Recognition on the Symposium website, including a link to your company's website
- Recognition on sponsor slides displayed between technical sessions
- Company logo, listing and handout option in the SPE International mobile app

“The TWIP Symposium is by far the best event to make connections with people, products and services to further SAGD operations. The knowledge, experience and technologies shared at this event are truly world class. No matter who you are I guarantee you'll learn something”.

“TWIP was one of the first events DarkVision attended, and it is one we will always come back to. The quality of the presentations and conversations never disappoints.”

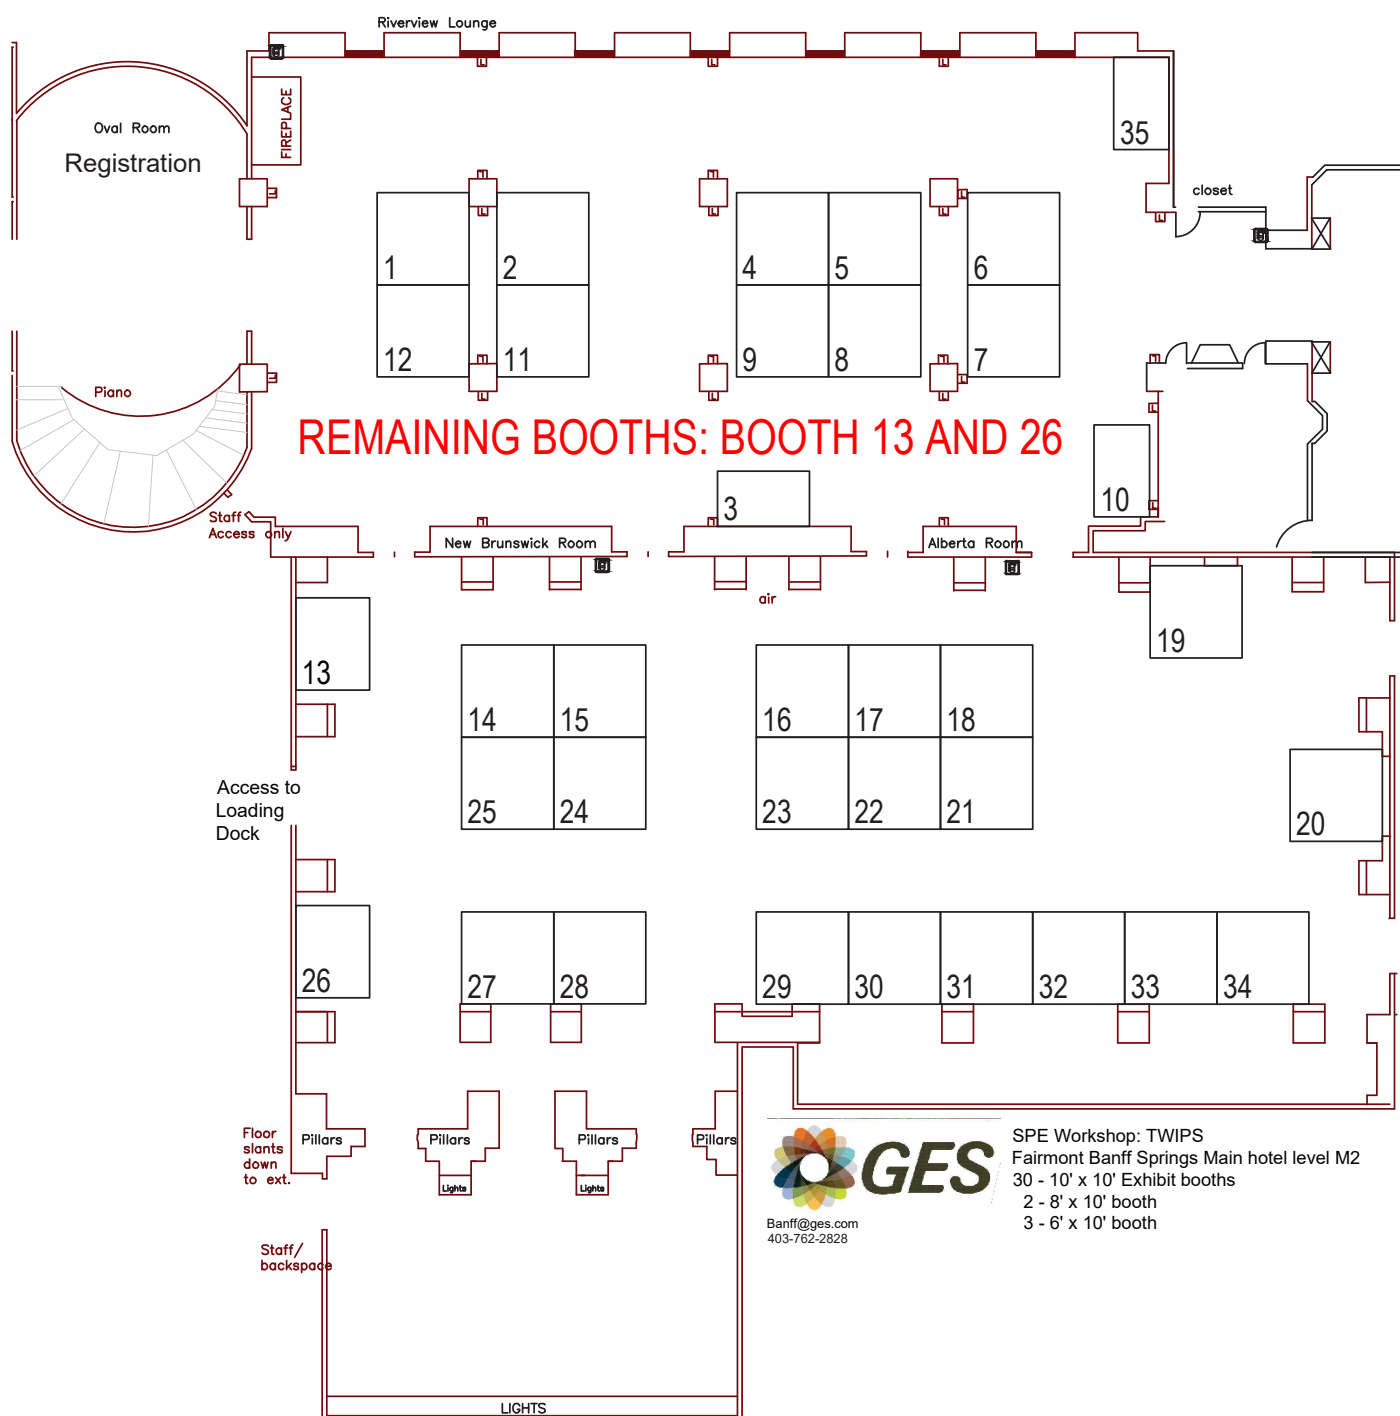

Rick Reeves, DarkVision Technologies

“The value of the Thermal Well Integrity and Production Symposium (TWIP) includes more than just the excellent presentations, it's a platform where operators and vendors are able to connect and discuss challenges and successes they are experiencing. The panels and breakout sessions allow for people within the industry to bring forward problems that can be solved through a collaborative approach with all the right people in the room. And finally, the openness and willingness to share at this event is what helps propel the industry forward.”
