Its honey is produced in the mountains of Central Greece in the region of Thessaly, around the Plastira lake in the mountains of Agrafa. The nature of the product itself reflects this prestige well, full of nectar from the region's multitude of wildflowers and natural vegetation, like pine, oak, fir, chestnut, wild mint, wild clover, and lavender. The Gkatzas Family packagers have been accredited with ISO 2200:2018 for their work.
