The wonder of Scotland & beyond, captured in fine-line pen.

Established in 2019, I have been exploring and photographing different landscapes for use in my drawings. I look for interesting compositions that appeal to my logical style of drawing.

I use a sustainable approach in all aspects of my work as I develop my style and build my small business.

Commissions are welcome and undertaken.

I consider being outside a natural and significant part of my life. I take inspiration from the changes and movement in the raw environment that surround us, outside of our homes.

Through the generation of ideas and creation of physical work, I hope to give people a chance to connect with the landscapes around us.

Established within my output is a respect for nature. I hope to inspire others to advocate that respect and build a deeper understanding of wild places.

Whisky stave frames

Details about my frames:

Unique whisky barrel hanging frames made from reclaimed Speyside region whisky barrel staves.

There will be variations to the colour and shape shown in the images. Each frame is steeped in Speyside whisky making history. The charring of the inside and rustic outside is present. In some cases you can see where the whisky has seeped into the wood.

Built to last in Ardersier, Scottish Highlands.

Further details:

Available in 3 styles: end knotted piece, curved and straight (ish).

These frames are designed to hold in place an A4 sized print (210mm x 297mm - portrait).

Strong, spring clips on the rear hold your print in place.

Self-tapping black hook & natural jute twine for hanging included.

Pricing:

£15/unit (RRP £25-£30)
