LINO CUTS

A little bit about Sarah ...

Sarah graduated in Environmental Illustration from the University of Sunderland in 1996. With help from The Prince's Trust she began printmaking full time, which started a love affair with lino.

Using traditional printmaking techniques designs are carved into lino blocks. Prints are pulled using linseed oil inks allowing some pieces to be tinted with watercolour to give added texture.

Influenced by wildlife, be it fluffy, furry or feathered, Sarah explores a variety of themes including hares, foxes and British birds.

Her artworks are held in private collections across the globe and Sarah has been commissioned by the National Trust, the RSPB and the GWCT.

Prints have been published in several books by Mascot Media including 'The Artful Hare' and can be seen in galleries throughout the UK.

She lives and works from her home 'The Pink House' in Cumbria alongside her artist husband David, their two children Rosie & Woody, her beloved BooBoo the long-haired dachshund and Tinker the naughty ginger tom.
