ABOUT

Hole in my Pocket is the practise name of architect and artist Allistair J Burt. As HIMP Allistair has worked on a vast range of projects from major art exhibitions, directing short films, building storytelling machines and travelling around Scotland with an air-hostess trolley full of wine. Since 2016 he has been supplying design stores, museums and galleries around the world with products featuring his illustrations and sense of humour.

BESPOKE WORK

With over 1000 designs we are bound to have the perfect thing for you but we have also worked with lots of wonderful museums & galleries to create bespoke collections of products and would love to speak with you about creating something together. Just drop me an email and we can start discussing how to tell your story.
