From the Founder

I'm Evie, and I own and operate Moth & Magpie, a home fragrance brand based in the heart of Scotland.

I've always been sensitive to scent – my dad has always said it was a shame I don't drink, as I'd make a great whisky taster. To me, the greatest feeling in the world is being able to shut out the noise and smells of the outside world, to light a candle and dive into a good book or film, having complete control over my space.

I've been making candles since 2021, which is the perfect way for me to combine this with the creative side of my brain. I love diving headfirst into a concept, matching fragrance and visuals to a theme.

Products are handmade in-house, providing a hands-on touch and maintaining a standard of high quality.

Sustainability is important to me, and I source top grade, vegan-friendly materials from local suppliers.

I use coconut soy wax for a sustainable, clean burn, and high-quality fragrance oils developed just for great-smelling candles. All candles come in robust, heat-tested jars, with wooden lids to keep them fresh and protected on your shelves.

Contents

My brand new Winter Wonderland collection is the ideal cosy Christmas range, featuring both classic and more subtle scents for the holiday season. The Apothecary is open year-round for those more mystical vibes, but especially perfect for the lead up to Halloween. The core Main Street collection is comprised of three curated "shops" to explore, each based around a different scent family; The Greengrocer, The Coffee Shop, and The Cigar Lounge.

Black Label

Our olfactory memory can be incredibly strong, and associating a scent with your brand is the perfect way to remind your customers of you.

The perfect client gift or addition to your merch line, our black label service means you can add your own branding to retail-ready products.

I'll help you select the perfect scent from our expansive collection, or blend something custom for your exclusive use. Label and packaging design is included in this service.

I charge a one-time development and design cost, then subsequent orders will be calculated at current wholesale product rates. Costs and terms will be discussed as part of the initial consultation.

Please get in touch to request a quote. I'd love to work with you!

“My house smells unbelievable, I love candles and always have one lit but these are exceptional candles. Can't wait to get some more!” –Rosalyn

“The candles are all such amazing quality, from the packaging to the labelling and they smell incredible. And reasonably priced!” –Anon

“I am absolutely obsessed with these candles, they burn just as long and give off even more of a scent than [high street brand], and have the BEST scent combinations!” –Winter

“The best customer service, and the most amazing products. Scents in candles and wax melts are so strong and last so long.” –Iman

Moth & Magpie is a concept-driven home fragrance company, based in the heart of Stirling, Scotland. Sourcing inspiration from fantasy, fiction, and real life, each product is carefully designed to tell a story, letting you unwind with a touch of escapism.

As a one-woman small business, placing an order really does make a massive difference to me, and it is so very appreciated that you're looking to shop small, local, and handmade. I'm sure your customers will be grateful too!
