Myself

I grew up on the Isle of Lewis, where I picked up a camera as a teenager in the seventies. I left the islands in the eighties, trained and worked in psychiatric nursing for twenty years.

I worked various roles within the pharmaceutical sector until becoming a self employed artist following the pandemic.

My Artist Journey

My first digital camera arrived in 2007, that was when my love for landscape photography took off, when I felt digital photography became equal to film photography, from that time I found some success in photography, both nationally and internationally, followed in 2013 by the discovery of Photo Encaustic Fine Art, my artistic journey truly began.

My Art

Photo Encaustic Art, the mix of beeswax, pine resin and a photographic print matched the eclectic way I wanted to create. Following the success of my photo encaustic art, and looking for additional outputs for my photographic collection, I began sharing my photographic art through greeting cards.. a passion that has created this small collection.
