

19.02.2024 Press Release

The Organisers of Education Estates®, the leading event for learning environments in the UK, are excited to announce the launch of a new event in Amsterdam: The European Universities Estates Congress. The event is held in collaboration with the University Design Forum.

The European Universities Estates Congress will take place on 26-27 February 2025 at RAI Amsterdam, a purpose-built exhibition centre in the heart of Amsterdam, with easy access by all modes of transport. Amsterdam is also home to some of the most innovative universities in Europe, making it the ideal location for an event concentrated on higher education.

The Congress comprises an exhibition and conference. It will take place biennially. The Organisers aim to bring estates and facilities professionals together from across Europe to inspire, share best practice and discuss approaches to common challenges. As with Education Estates®, the event will be free to attend for all those directly employed in universities. A delegate fee will apply for private sector delegates. The exhibition will be free for all to attend.

Key topics at the European Universities Estates Congress will include:

- Refurbishment & Retrofit
- Good Estate Management
- Net Zero
- Sustainability
- Good Design
- Health & Wellbeing
- Technology & AI
- And many more...

Exhibitors will include architects, consultants, contractors and suppliers of products and services for universities. The Congress will attract an audience of estates professionals, architects and consultants, who will be inspired by recent notable projects being discussed at the conference and looking for companies at the exhibition that can meet their own unique challenges.

James Lee, CEO & Co-Founder of Step Connect², commented, “We are incredibly excited to announce the launch of this new event. It’s an area in which we already have significant expertise and connections, and we are delighted to be working in collaboration with the University Design Forum. The European Universities Estates Congress will offer university estates professionals throughout Europe a rare opportunity to discuss solutions to common challenges and replicate each other’s successes. We already have a lot of interest from our UK clients and we’re in touch with university leaders from across Europe. The website is up so do check it out and register if you wish to be kept up to date.”
